About Global Counsel

Our team has experience in politics and policymaking in national governments and international institutions. With offices in Brussels, London, Singapore and Washington DC, we can advise on a wide range of topics across numerous geographies. Some of the sectors we have expertise in include:

- Technology and media
- Climate and sustainability
- Health and social care
- Trade
- Financial services
- Energy

About the Social Impact Programme

We have set up a programme to help non-profit organisations, as well as small for-profits with strong values-based aims, with political and policy issues on a pro bono basis. This is aimed at organisations that would not otherwise have access to our services, especially those pursuing causes that our staff are passionate about.

Successful applicants will benefit from our skills and expertise through a tailored consultancy project over a period of several months. The maximum engagement with any project will be six months.

Who can apply?

- Is your organisation a charity, NGO, educational institution, foundation, or another not-for-profit organisation?
- If your organisation is a small for-profit, does it have strong values-based aims (for example as social enterprises do)?
- Does your organisation have a policy or political challenge that GC can provide support on?
- Is your organisation registered with your respective regulator (for instance the Charity Commission in England and Wales), if relevant?

What we can offer

We are flexible and will work with the successful applicant(s) to provide a bespoke service that best fits their needs. This is likely to be one of the following:

Report for internal use

A short report on a political, policy or regulatory issue that impacts your organisation. You can use this for internal purposes, such as planning and decision-making. It can involve us talking to experts on the area and considering how trends are likely to affect you.

Example

Report for a charity that depends on cash donations. It could look at how relevant policies impact cash use and donations. The charity could use it to adapt its strategy.

Report for external use

A short report on a political, policy or regulatory issue that you can publish for an external audience. It would be jointly branded with GC and could be used to establish your organisation as a thought-leader in an area. We would help with the scope, content, design and narrative of the report, tailoring it to your needs and audience.

Example

A report offering policymakers ways to address the economic impact of the pandemic, for instance through policies that target rising inequality.

Event Support

Helping you plan, organise and deliver a one-off online (or in-person where possible) event, webinar or roundtable.

Example

Organising a roundtable for a healthcare NGO on covid-19 vaccine policy, with attendees including policymakers.

Political strategy and advocacy planning

Identifying key stakeholders for you to engage with on a policy or political issue and creating an engagement strategy.

Example

Creating a strategy for an NGO to build its political brand with stakeholders, e.g. by responding to government consultations, identifying key stakeholders and crafting a strategy for engagement.
